A practical gardener writing to an Indian pa per gives the following as a preventative against the ravages of white ants:-In spite of every care and cleanliness, white ants will at times appear; but the best preventative is kerosine oil prepared and applied in the following manner, the discovery of which is due to Mr. Bidly, of the Lucknow Gardens. Take a quart bottle and fill it one-thir I with milk, let it stand till the milk turns sour; then nearly fill the bottle with karodue; let a coolie churn the mixture as cresu i charned for butter; it will form a thick, white emulsion, which mixes freely when stirred into water. Use a shorry glassful of this amulsion to a kerosine tinful of water. Stir well and water the whole of your conservatory freely with it out of a rose waterpot. It will not harm the *most delicate plants. It is Mongolian. The word bogdo is used of divine personages or deffied men. The lup to Wednesday:title, which may thus be fairly translated "His Sacred Majesty." was first adopted, I think, by lenghis Khan when his supremacy over all other Khans was recognised in 1202. His grandson. Kublai Khan, Marco Polo's patron, it will be remembered, was the first of the Mongolian lynasty, which ruled China from 1281 to 1363. and it is from his day down that the Russians have been wont to apply the title to the Emperor of China. The Mongols to this day speak generally, if not always, of the Emperor, their suzerain, as the Bagdo Khan, or the Bogdo Edsen, the sacred Khan or the sacred lord. It is quite intelligible that a Chinese representative should prefer the employment of some other term. At the same time, there is nothing offensive in this. Up to 1860 the Chinese, in correspondence with the Government of Siberia, snoke of the Emperor of Russia as Imperator; or rather endeayoured so to speak of him, for there are known difficulties in the way of transliteration from any European language into Chinese.

A WOMAN'S SUFFERINGS AND $GRATITUDE_{ij}$

A VOICE FROM AUSTRIA.

Near the village of Zillingdorf, in Lower instria, lives Maria Huas, an intelligent and industrious woman, whose story of physical suffering and final relief, as related by herself, is of interest to English women. "I was employed." she says, "in the work of a large farmhouse. Overwork brought on sick hendache, followed by deathly fainting and sickness of the stomach. until I was unable to retain either food or drink. was compalled to take to my bed for several weeks. Getting a little better from rest and quiet. I sought to do some work, but was soon taken with a pain in my side, which in a little while seemed to apread over my whole body, and throbbed in my every limb This was followed by a cough and shortness of breath, until finally I could not sew, and I took to my bed for the second, and, as I thought, for the last time. My friends told me that my time had nearly come, and that I could not live longer than when the trees put on their graun one; more. Then I happened to get one of the Seigel pamphlets. read it, and my dear mother bought me a bottle of Seigel's Syrup, which I took exactly accounting to directions, and I had not taken the whole ing Count Holstein, who, while visiting the of it before I felt a great change for the better. I toki her of Seigel's Syrup, and wrote the name down for her that she might make no mistake. She took my advice and the Syrup, around as are smazed. The medicine has made such progress in our neighbourhood that people in our district who caught a cold by going through some water, and was in bed five years with costiveness and rheumatic pains, and had to have an attendant to watch by her. There was not a doctor in the surrounding districts to whom her mother had not applied to relieve her child. but every one crossed themselves and said they could not help her. Whenever the little bell rang which is rung in our place when somebody is dead, we thought surely it was for her, but Seigol's Syrup and Pills saved her life, and now she is as healthy as anybody, goes to church, and can work even in the fields. Everybody was astonished when they saw her out, knowing how many years she had been in bed. To-day she adds her gratitude to mine for God'smercies and
